

Contents

List of Figures	x
List of Tables	xi
Introduction	1

PART I. FORMS, PHASES, MODELS

1. Human Progress and the Republican State	13
The idea of progress	14
Human progress	17
Historical stages and institutions	18
The good society	19
The republican state	21
2. The Capitalist Revolution	26
The formation of nation-states	28
Four models of the Capitalist Revolution	30
A brief note on New Developmentalism	37
3. Two Forms and Four Phases	40
Two forms of economic coordination of capitalism	41
Arrighi's systemic cycles of capital accumulation	42
Phases of capitalist development	45
4. The Developmental State	53
The developmental state defined	54
Class coalitions	56
The role of the state	57
5. Imperialism and the Developing World	60
The Great Divergence	62
China: A Century of Humiliation	64
The concept of imperialism	67
The American century	69
America: the incoherent and violent empire	71
Economic liberalism as an instrument of imperialism	75

PART II. TWO FOUNDING REVOLUTIONS

6. The Quality of Democracy	79
The quality of democracy	80
The philosophers' view	81
Democratic transitions	84
The search for the causes	85
Capitalist revolutions and democracy	87
The quality of democracy	93
7. The Organizational Revolution	97
The rise of a new class	98
Managerial or knowledge capitalism?	101
The next ruling class is always a third class	103
The century of the new middle class	105
Capital and organization	108
Change in the measure of capital	113
8. Managerial Ideology	116
The 'end of ideology'	118
Philosophers and managerial ideology	118
Growth and efficiency	121
All problems are technical issues	123
Meritocracy	124
9. The Golden Age of Capitalism and the 1970s Crisis	128
Managers' social-developmental capitalism	129
The Golden Age	131
Social democracy bows to neoliberalism	137
10. The End of Statism in Russia and China	139
Statism and the Soviet Union	141
Statism instead of socialism	145
The failure of socialist revolutions	151

PART III. THE NEOLIBERAL REGRESSION

11. The Neoliberal Turn	159
The 1970s crisis	162
A concerted attack	163
The war on Keynesian economics	165
Neoliberalism is born	166
Defining neoliberalism	171
A project of radical change	174
Deregulation and privatization	176

12. Globalization: Reality and Design	181
Globalization as a reality	182
Globalization as a project	185
The main tool: trade liberalization	187
Growing inequality in the Neoliberal Years	189
13. Rentiers and Financiers	190
Rentier capitalists	191
Rents: dividends, interest, and real-estate rents	192
Rentiers' accumulated wealth	197
Stockholders and top executives	199
Financiers	201
14. Neoliberal Ideology: Reactionary and Neoconservative	206
Ideology	206
Neoliberal ideology	207
The celebration of inequality	211
A reactionary assault on the state and the market	213
Conservatism, liberalism, and neoliberalism	215
15. Neoclassical Economics and Its Critiques	220
Neoclassical Economics	221
Methodological critique	225
Other critiques	227
Excellent 'neoclassical' economists	229
After the 2008 great financial crisis	231
16. Financialization	234
Financialization, monetarism, and the banks	237
Hilferding's financial capital	239
Post-Keynesians and Regulationists	241
Financialization of the production system	243
Financialization and secular cycles	244
A growth of private debt outcome	246

PART IV. THE CRISIS

17. The 2008 Great Financial Crisis	253
The 2008 great financial crisis	255
The three-sector balance approach	257
Preceded by financial instability	259
An avoidable crisis?	262
A turning point	265

18. Collapse of Neoliberalism and Secular Stagnation	267
Marx's falling profit rate	268
Demand-side quasi-stagnation	271
Recent contributions	272
Other contributions	276
Excess of capitals	278
Conclusion	281
19. Falling Inequality?	284
Increasing equality	284
Increasing inequality in the Neoliberal Years	286
The causes behind inequality	289
After neoliberalism	291
A programme	292
20. The Developing World	294
The attack on developmentalism	295
The new-developmental critique	298
21. China, the US, and Developmentalism	303
China's growth and authoritarianism	305
China and the US compared	308
The US and China: developmental countries	311
China and New Developmentalism	313
Conclusion	319

PART V. WHAT LIES AHEAD FOR CAPITALISM?

22. Democracy Is Alive	323
Consolidated democracy	323
Research confirms	325
Right-wing national populism	327
In favour of populism	329
The 'end of democracy'	330
Consolidated but with problems	331
Democracy is not dying; it is alive	332
The gradual death of democracy?	334
23. Neoliberalism Collapsed	339
The end of the globalization project	340
The 2016 political crisis	342
Collapse and the Developmental Turn	344
Streeck on 'the end of capitalism'	349
Others on 'the end of capitalism'	353
Or is capitalism already dead?	355

24. Democratic Managerial Capitalism	357
Why managerial? And the command of innovation	359
Why developmental? And its difficulties	362
Why democratic? Phases of democratization	365
Why ecological? Climate change is the main challenge	369
25. No Emancipatory Transition	376
Democratic Managerial Capitalism	377
Wars. Which ones?	380
Legal corruption and republican rights	382
Democratic but not emancipatory	386
A success or a failure?	387
Ahead, a managerial social organization?	388
And the Socialist Revolution?	390
End Notes	394
References	415
Index	437